A QUESTION ABOUT
Brown's Iron
Bitters
ANSWERED.

The question has recently been asked of the proprietors of Brown's Iron Bitters, "What is the difference between Brown's Iron Bitters and the other iron bitters?" The answer is, that Brown's Iron Bitters is the only one that contains the purest and most assimilable form of iron, and that it is the only one that is free from all the impurities and adulterations which are found in the other iron bitters. It is the only one that is pure and potent, and that it is the only one that is free from all the impurities and adulterations which are found in the other iron bitters. It is the only one that is pure and potent, and that it is the only one that is free from all the impurities and adulterations which are found in the other iron bitters.

Yesterday's Weather.
This locality during the past two weeks has been favored with nearly every variety of seasonable and unseasonable weather, but that furnished yesterday was ahead of that of any single day, by a very decided majority. It was both warm and cold, stormy and serene, disagreeable and agreeable. The morning was lowering and at times there was a drizzling rain. About noon a howling hurricane, similar to the one that raged hereabouts just one week ago, came from the east and with it a cold, stormy and disagreeable weather. The wind continued to howl last night and it grew cold.

AN AWFUL ACCIDENT.

MAN AND TWO HORSES DROWNED
At the Public Landing in Fight of a Large Number of People—Sad Ending of a Bad Practice—The Particulars—A Brave man's Effort to Save Life.

Shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon John Wagner, employed as a teamster by Peter Welty & Co., the wholesale liquor firm at No. 1118 Main street and No. 1121 Market street, was drowned in the Ohio, together with a fine team of horses that he was driving, at the public landing at the foot of Twelfth street.

The end and deplorable accident was witnessed probably by not less than fifty people, who were either in stores along the levee, at the depots or about the public landing watching the river and steamers. Heroic efforts were made to save the unfortunate man, but it was all over so soon that these efforts were futile. The news of the drowning spread rapidly and inside of ten minutes after it had happened 300 or 400 people had gathered on the levee to learn the particulars. The occurrence was one that created a very decided shock.

Wagner was a man about 30 years old, a son of C. F. Wagner, the saloonist, whose place is at the corner of Eoff and Eighth streets. This young man was raised here and was quite popular among his acquaintances and considered by his employers a good, steady man. About eighteen months ago he married and was living with his wife on Eleventh street near Chapline. His young wife and his parents were almost distracted by the news which was broken to them as gently as possible by sympathetic friends.

The team of horses lost was one of the finest of the many fine ones owned by the wholesale firm of this city. They were a beautiful matched pair, dark bay and spirited and stylish in action and valued at over $500 that amount having been offered for them. The wagon and harness were almost new. Several months since the team was run away on Twelfth street and knocked down the large Selmer team that used to stand in front of Grubb's jewelry store.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.
Wagner had driven down to the river, presumably, for the purpose of washing the mud off from his wagon wheels and the horses' legs. The attention of owners of teams to the mud on their wheels and the mud on the horses' legs is a very dangerous practice, and one that is being directed by this paper for a long time. The mud on the wheels and the mud on the horses' legs is a very dangerous practice, and one that is being directed by this paper for a long time. The mud on the wheels and the mud on the horses' legs is a very dangerous practice, and one that is being directed by this paper for a long time.

Neither that nor the awful accident of yesterday evening, however, for inside of an hour half a dozen teams had been driven in the water at almost the same place Wagner met his fate. The point at which Wagner drove his horses in was directly at the foot of Twelfth street, about distance from the wharfboat of the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling road. The horses commenced to plunge as soon as they were in the water, and the whip was applied to urge them in. Under the influence of the lash they dashed in and in less than a minute they were so deep that they were swept from their feet by the swift current and then commenced to swim.

The people on the levee who were watching the team seeing this ran down to the water's edge. Some shouted to Wagner to leave the team and save himself; others advised him to turn the horses around and swim. The heavy wagon pulled down one of the animals under water, and just then the current overtook the entire outfit. When this occurred they were that far out that the water was up to Wagner's waist as he sat on the high seat.

EFFORTS MADE TO RESCUE HIM.
Wagner floated rapidly down the stream past the wharfboat and close to it. One man who had rushed on the boat held out a broom and the unfortunate man grasped it and was pulled up. Another man threw a rope, but just then Wagner went down. As he came up Councilman George Gundling, who had witnessed the occurrence, threw him a long board that he had picked up and ran on the boat with it. The man caught this board in a moment. It looked as though he might be saved, but there were no skills about and no one was willing to risk his own life until Henry Baker came rushing down from his father's place on Eleventh street. His mother had witnessed from the wharfboat the accident, and as she saw Wagner thrown into the river called her son, a young man about twenty-four years old.

A BRAVE ACT.
He ran down to the landing with all possible speed and throwing off his coat and vest and kicking off his shoes jumped into the water. He swam to a point just above the P. & W. freight house. He caught the board and had about made his way to the end where Wagner was clinging with a death grip, just the top of his head showing above the water, when the half dead man jumped off and disappeared for the last time. Baker managed to get out unassisted; he was nearly dead with cold himself.

It is supposed that the light and cold man Wagner never unconscious as soon as he was thrown from his seat. Efforts were made to recover the body, but to no success. The team is supposed to be lodged under the wharfboat. Baker received no end of praise, which he deserved, for his brave efforts.

W. U. B. BENEFIT.
Miss Dillon Draws a Fine Audience in the Opera House last night for the benefit of the Women's Union Benevolent Society was in every sense a handsome success. Miss Dillon attracted a large audience, fairly representing the intelligence of the city. The liberal applause was not more marked than the quiet evidences of very great satisfaction.

Miss Dillon was a very great improvement since her last public appearance here. Her shading is more delicate and her voice even more musical. Her program last night took a wide range and showed a confidence in her power that was not over-estimated. Her humorous recitations, with no means requiring the least skill, were done with easy naturalness and to the delight of the audience, and these again took a wide scope.

To any which of the readings was the best it would be necessary to compare that to a great many tastes. It may be said, however, that "The Spinning Wheel Song," "Baller's 'Aux Italiens'" and "The Creed of the Belle" were the selections requiring the most art, and that they were rendered with skill and distinctness of enunciation. Add to these qualities intelligence and talent, and we have the acceptable popular reader, and that Miss Dillon is the Opera House orchestra contributed the accompaniment to three of the recitations being a novel and delightful feature.

Union Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold a gospel temperance meeting at the English Lutheran church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

The South Side Singing Society entertained its members and its friends at its hall last evening in a very enjoyable manner. There was a concert followed by an hop.

Miss MATTIE VICKERS the charming little society belle who has made herself quite a favorite here, will play a return engagement at the Grand this afternoon and evening.

The hall given at Germania hall last night by the Junior Plumbers of this city, was a very jolly affair, and brought together a large and merry crowd. It was a great success.

The congregation of the Disciples church of this city have given Elder Matthew L. Atwood, of Honesdale, Pennsylvania, Pa., a call, and he will begin his labors with the church to-morrow.

The draft for the Wheeling steel plant at Benwood having arrived from Philadelphia where it was sent some time since to have some necessary repairs made, will be placed in position to-morrow, and the plant will probably resume operations early next week.

Tim Windor Athletic Club, an organization composed of a number of clever gentlemen living on the South Side, and one that although of recent origin, has grown very popular, gave a very pleasant surprise to its members last night when they were led in their praise of the entertainment. Killmyer furnished the music.

ABOUT PEOPLE.
Strangers in the City and Wheeling Folks Abroad.

Mr. M. L. Sullivan, a prominent citizen of Clayville, was in the city yesterday.

Miss Annie H. Brown, of Steubenville, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. John Frow, of this city.

Mrs. V. Cockayne and daughter, of Monmouthville, were registered at the Stamm House yesterday.

Mr. P. Gano, of West Union, will know throughout the State, was at the Stamm last evening.

Miss Mary Schabert has gone to Philadelphia, where she will live for the present. Mayor Schabert, who is in the East purchasing goods.

Miss Minnie Madden is credited with having said a clever thing at a dinner, when her hostess required her to define "love." "It is like war," replied Miss Madden, "a declaration is always followed by a rush to arms."

Mr. Clay Dean has been given the position of clerk at the Howell House. He is quite well known throughout the State, having traveled formerly for E. A. McCab & Co. It is predicted that he will make a popular clerk.

Prof. Herman Egeling, one of the leading musicians of Cincinnati, formerly a resident of this city, arrived here last evening for the purpose of settling up the estate of his father, who recently died. He will remain for several days.

SQUIRE J. F. MAYES
To Retire From Office After Making Thousand Dollars Happy and Some Sad.

Squire Joseph F. Mayes, the veteran Justice of the Peace, of West Alexander, who has won far-spread fame by marrying hundreds of run-away couples in the days when no license was required in the Keystone State, was not a candidate for re-election last Tuesday and will retire from office in May. He was preceded in office by his father, the late Squire Mayes, who was a prominent citizen of this county, and they three married nearly 5,000 couples, and they made their town famous as a Gretchen Green, fully as much as they made themselves famous. Among those married by the late Squire Mayes was a young man who is now an officer in the army, and for over thirty years, are several Wheeling people many of them citizens of prominence.

Squire Mayes kept a complete and careful record and is one of the most interesting records in the county. He himself married in the neighborhood of 1,000 couples, and has married them at all hours of the day and night and frequently when late parents were in pursuit, under the most exciting of circumstances. For his services he has received some handsome presents, and from almost nothing he has made a large fortune, for those requiring his services were from all classes of life, and it might be added, of all ages and conditions.

Miss Madden at the Opera House.
The indications are that the Opera House will be well patronized by the audiences this afternoon and evening, when Miss Minnie Madden, the charming little actress, who has on several occasions before greatly pleased Wheeling theatergoers, will make her appearance in "Caprice." The piece will be played. This will be Miss Madden's last appearance in the East for some time. Sunday afternoon she and her company will leave direct for San Francisco, where they will play for six weeks before starting back.

The story of "Caprice" is a very pretty and pathetic one. The scenery of the first act represents a summer camp in the Adirondacks, and Joe Barclay, a young man, and Mary (Miss Madden) the totally uneducated daughter of a farmer, fascinate a young artist of good family, who spends his holidays in the neighborhood and who finally marries the country girl. A short period ensues of love in a cottage, but the artist grows weary of his poor little uneducated wife, and after much pathetic expostulation with her father for not having sent her to school, Mary leaves her husband and devotes eight years to a course of education, and the usual reconciliation follows. All this affords an opportunity for any amount of effective acting and tender little scenes.

At the Grand.
There was another change of bill at the Grand last night. "The Boy Detective," a very interesting long-story play, was given by Mr. N. S. Wood, supported by his own company, in a very satisfactory manner. Mr. Wood assumes seven different characters in this play and does them in a manner that will for him excite the applause. The piece will be repeated this afternoon and evening, when Mr. Wood will terminate what has been a successful week's engagement. Popular prices prevail at this house, and this afternoon will be a favorable occasion.

Party in the Country.
Miss Milla Wells, of Beach Bottom, one of the Brooks county stations along the Potomac, was assisted by Mr. Bane, a popular gentleman in that locality, gave a party one night this week to a party of her friends. It was arranged for in a very short space of time, but that if anything, added to the enjoyment. About twenty couples were present and they whiled away the time playing cards and dancing. About midnight a substantial lunch was served. An orchestra from Wellsburg furnished the music.

CLASH OF AUTHORITY

Between Two Powerful Unions
Trouble of a Serious Nature Threatened Between the K. of L. and Amalgamated as the Outgrowth of the Strike at the Mingo Steel Plant.

Recent reports from Mingo are to the effect that the trouble at the Laughlin and Junction Steel Company's plant between the company and the men, which has been in progress for about two weeks past is much more important than generally believed, for it is said to be in reality a contest between the Knights of Labor and the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers.

The employees of the Junction Iron Works are members of the Amalgamated while those of the steel plant were members of the Knights of Labor. Among the rules under which the steel plant was working was one which said that tonnage would be paid only for iron that was actually worked. Two weeks ago one of the cranes broke and the partial tonnage could not be made.

The report goes that the men claimed that they were not responsible for mechanical breakages and should be paid for full tonnage and this led to the discharge of one of the men, which the others will not take back.

In the meantime the employees of the steel plant formed themselves into a lodge of the Amalgamated Association. Master Workman Crowley, of Mingo, undertook to settle the trouble but failed.

Thursday William H. Hays, Chairman of the Executive Board of the Knights of Labor, and William Welke, President of the Amalgamated Association, held a conference at the Imperial Hotel, in Steubenville, Pa. He claimed that the men at the Mingo steel plant made up their minds three weeks before the trouble to be admitted to the Amalgamated Association, and Mr. Bailey claimed that the interference of that organization was unwarranted.

The conference did not result in any settlement of the difficulty. Both parties were firm in their positions, right and wrong, and it looks as if the case was to be made a test one between the two organizations.

ANOTHER INTERESTING REPORT.
An Associated Press dispatch sent out from Pittsburgh last night says that the strike is threatening serious trouble between the Knights of Labor and the Amalgamated, the former having ordered the men to work and the latter organization sustaining them in their strike. It states further: This is regarded as the beginning of a fight in which a danger is threatened to the peace of the city. No existing between the Knights and the International Oiler Makers' Union. That the men must give up one or the other association is almost certain.

Within the past few months there has been a great deal of talk about the necessity of strengthening their membership among the iron and steel workers. The Amalgamated Association has been bringing in new lodges every week and have been especially successful in the West. Two new lodges were organized within a couple of days; one in at Torre Hante, Ind., and the other at Benwood, W. Va. It is said that the Amalgamated Association is stronger than at any time in its history.

THE SPORTSMAN'S ASSOCIATION
That has been Organized in this State—A Meeting in Pittsburgh.

There is to be a meeting of the Sportsman's Association of Cheat Mountain held in Pittsburgh to-day. This is a corporation recently chartered by Secretary of State Walker. It is composed of Pennsylvania and West Virginia men. Its capital stock is $15,000, with the privilege of increasing to $100,000. The tract of land, to be the game preserve of the Association, is situated in Randolph county, and owned by A. H. Winchester, who leases it for fifty years, free of taxes and rent. It is about twenty-five miles long and of a varying width, embracing about 50,000 acres on the Cheat and Buchanan rivers. It is proposed to take good care of the game already there, by the appointment of wardens, and also to stock the preserve with buffalo, deer, etc.

The membership is limited to seventy-five, and each member has but one vote. The West Virginia members are: Hon. B. L. Butcher, of Randolph county; W. S. Edwards, of Cheat county; G. H. Brown, of Randolph county; William G. Brown, of Preston county; and A. P. Tallman, of Wheeling.

Mr. Edwards was interviewed yesterday by a Pittsburgh reporter. He said: "The tract above mentioned is very large, and there is an immense quantity of game on it. Last year one hunter killed thirty bears within its confines. The last old killed in West Virginia was found there. There are many white rabbits on the tract."

At the meeting the club will adopt by-laws and a plan for the club house.

Lost on the Mississippi—The Particulars.
General River News.

Yesterday Hon. A. J. Sweeney received from Memphis, Tenn., a dispatch stating that at about 10 o'clock the night before the towboat Pat McLaughlin was towing the General Pearson, a disabled steamer, from Belmont, a place on the opposite side of the river from Memphis, when about half way across the river she was caught in a strong eddy or whirlpool and capsized, and sinking, became a total wreck.

The crew all jumped as the boat careened, and as they were good swimmers no lives were lost. It is supposed that Frank Farnsworth, the pilot, had temporary command of the boat, as the telegram was from him.

The McLaughlin was built here not very long ago, the hull and machinery of the old Monitor being used. She was originally owned by a company composed of Davis, Davis, W. J. W. Cowden, Ike Carpenter and others. She was placed in the Southern trade, but about two months ago was seized by the United States Marshal at Helena, Ark., for debt, at the instance of the firm of A. J. Sweeney & Son, who two weeks ago bid her in at public sale.

Since then she has been under contract as a railroad transfer boat at Memphis. She was valued at $20,000, and is insured for $25,000, placed by Alderson & Atkinson in marine insurance companies of Cincinnati and Louisville. Bob Fitch, the engineer, and Ike Carpenter, the mate, are both residents here, and were both on board of her at the time of the accident. The locality of the accident is said by river men to be one of the most dangerous on the Mississippi.

Captain John M. Sweeney, who went west to bid the boat in at the Marshal's sale, left Memphis for home about five hours before the accident.

RAILROAD NEWS.
Business was light on the levee yesterday.

The Scotia is down at an early hour this morning.

The steamers had considerable trouble on account of the heavy wind yesterday.

The C. W. Batchelor for Pittsburgh and the Courier for Parkersburg will be to-day's packets.

The river is still falling at this point. The marks last evening indicated a depth in the channel of 20 feet.

The reports from above last night were all to the effect that the river was falling. At Pittsburgh the depth in the channel was 12 feet.

The John R. Towboat Company of Kanawha county, recently incorporated by Secretary of State Walker, has purchased the steamer Nellie F. Brown, paying about $7,000 for her.

Captain Ben Merriels has resigned his position as commander of the Fleetwood. He will retire with the close of this week and be succeeded by Captain John Brennan, who has been on the Louis A. Shirley.

The Louis A. Shirley did not arrive until late last night, having been detained by bad weather and the heavy wind that was blowing from the north. She will leave at 8 o'clock this afternoon on her return trip. The steamer and her efficient officers are so well known that any special mention is almost unnecessary. Shippers are requested to have their shipments on the levee at an early hour.

TO BE PROLONGED.

THE BIG FAIR SUCH A SUCCESS
That the Assembly's Committee Decides to Continue It Two More Nights—Another Large Crowd Present Last Night.

Everything Moving Smoothly.

The big industrial fair and festival of the Ohio Valley Trades and Labor Assembly that was opened at the Chapline street rink last Monday night, and which has been in progress every night this week, continues to be an attraction full of interest, and one that draws wonderfully large crowds. To-day the fair will be open both afternoon and evening, and a regular rush is anticipated to-night, and the expectation is that the money will fairly roll in.

So general is the interest taken in the fair and so unanimous the desire to see it extended, that the general committee has decided to continue it Monday and Tuesday nights, when it will positively be brought to a close. This decision was arrived at after a consultation with the various subcommittees in charge of the general booth. They all cheerfully agreed to donate two more nights of hard work to the cause. There was never an affair of this nature that had better commended itself to the Assembly than this. As there will be thousands of articles left over a general auction will be held Monday evening at the various booths. Tuesday evening the remaining articles in all the booths will be bunched under a general rifle hold. The probabilities are that hundreds of articles will be disposed of in this manner and thus insure the purchaser of a single ticket a sure chance of drawing a prize.

The attendance last night was larger than it has been on any previous evening. Many were noticed who had visited the place earlier in the week, but who could not withstand the temptation to again inspect the countless novelties that are to be seen in this huge bazaar. As on previous nights the crowd was one made up of nearly every class; and it was one with money to spend in aiding the commendable project for which the fair is given. The refreshment and support stands were called on heavily, but profiting by former experience, were fortunately supplied with enough to meet all demands. Chances in the several raffles were sold in large numbers and the various booths were liberally patronized. The glass work display and that made by Mr. Joseph Phillips, of the Standard mill and his estimable wife continue to be exhibits of special interest. Donations are still coming in and the management is encouraged by the liberal encouragement received on all sides to believe that not less than $2,500 will be cleared.

A CHILD'S SKIN
Ears and Scalp Covered with Eczematous Scabs and Sores Cured by Cuticura.

My little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great eruption of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky discharge would issue. Intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and matted. Underneath the scabs the skin was raw and sore. Gradually the eruption spread over his face, and the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the crown of his head. My friends in Kentucky knew how my little boy was afflicted. At night he would scratch his head until his hands were covered with blood. I used to try to prevent his scratching, but it was no use, he would scratch himself until he was almost blind. The best physician in Kentucky without success. About this time some friends, who had been cured by the Cuticura Remedies, prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 10th of January last, and a severe eruption of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remained on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. The itching, soreness, and distress were all gone, and his hair grew again. I am now writing you to tell you that your Cuticura Remedies are true. I have been cured by the Cuticura Remedies, and I am now writing you to tell you that your Cuticura Remedies are true.
